LICENSE GRANTED TO THREE.

OTHER APPLICATIONS DO NOT COME UP TILL NEXT MEETING.

Action on Newcomb's Application Deferred to an Indefinite Time—The Committee Recommends Regulations to Govern the Sale of Liquor—Bars Must not be Open Before 5 a. m., nor After 10 p. m.

The City Aldermen met in an adjourned meeting Saturday night, nine of the Board being present, names of whom are hereafter mentioned.

The special committee to which was referred the petition of citizens to submit the question of the issuance of retail liquor license to a white primary and the applications for license, made its report, as follows:

"While regretting to be compelled to report adversly on the request of the excellent citizens whose petition for a primary on the questions of license was referred to your committee, after carefully considering the petitions, believing as they do, that a primary would settle nothing permanently and would be unwise at this time, the committee were unanimously of the opinion that under all circumstances, the petition ought not to be granted."

The committee further recommended the passage of certain ordinances governing the sale of liquor in the town. They recommended as follows:

Ordinances Governing the Sale of Liquors.

Section First, That it shall be unlawful for the proprietor, manager or clerk of any barroom or saloon in the City of Greensboro, to open the same before 5 o'clock a. m., or to keep same open later than 10 o'clock p. m., or to allow any person within said barroom or saloon at any time other than between the hours named. Any person convicted of violating any of the offenses mentioned in this section shall be fined fifty dollars.

Section Second, That no person shall be granted a license to sell spirituous, vinous or malt liquors within the City of Greensboro whose place does not front and open immediately on a public street.

Section Third, That it shall be unlawful for any proprietor, manager or clerk of any barroom or saloon in the City of Greensboro to allow any person to enter or pass out of said barroom or saloon through a back or side door or entry unless said side door open on a public street. Any person convicted of violating this section or any part thereof shall be fined ten dollars.

Section Fourth, That no license shall be granted to any person or persons to sell within the corporate limits of the City of Greensboro spirituous malt or vinous liquors, or beer, or ale, or intoxicating drinks of any nature whatever, in any place within the distance of three hundred feet of the city market, the city graded schools, or any other school or public seminary within the city limits, or within 250 feet of the court house, and all ordinances or parts thereof inconsistent with this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section Fifth. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons engaged in the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors to keep or have connected in any way with their establishment games or gaming tables of any kind whatever, or to sell intoxicating liquors of any kind to an habitual drunkard or to any person manifestly under the influence of intoxicating liquor at the time of the sale. Any person violating this ordinance or any part thereof shall be fined $10.00 for each offense.

Section Sixth. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons engaged in said business to shut off from public view the interior of their places of business by means of screens, inside doors, shades, blinds, painted window glass, or any means whatever, Any person violating this ordinance or any part thereof shall be fined $10.00 for each offense.

Section Seventh. Every person, licensed to retail spirituous, vinous or malt liquors within the city, or any clerk or employee of such person who shall be found drunk or disorderly, at his place of business, shall be fined Twenty-five Dollars.

Section Eighth. Every owner of a barroom, or place where liquor or beer is kept for sale, or the keeper or tender of such place, who shall knowingly permit or allow gambling or betting of any kind in such place of business kept by him in connection therewith, shall, on conviction before the Mayor, be fined Twenty Dollars for every such offense.

Section Ninth. It shall be unlawful for any person to enter or attempt to enter a barroom or saloon through a back door or a side door or entry, unless said side door or entry opens immediately on a public street, and it shall be unlawful for any person except the proprietor or clerk to enter or remain, or attempt to enter or remain in a saloon or barroom except during the hours specified for keeping said saloon or barroom open. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be fined Twenty Dollars.

Section Tenth. If any person licensed to sell liquors violates any ordinance of the City regarding liquors or its sale, it shall be the duty of the Mayor to revoke his license, and in case the Mayor fails in this duty, the Board of Aldermen shall revoke his license, and thereafter if he shall continue to sell, he shall be prosecuted for selling without license.

Section Eleventh. It shall be unlawful for two or more persons to assemble in the streets, or public squares, and indulge in drinking spirituous, vinous, malt or intoxicating liquors, and every person so offending, upon conviction before the Mayor, shall be fined Five Dollars.

The committee recommended that the license tax be fixed at $1000 per annum, and recommded the following firms for license: R. P. Gorrell, corner South Elm and Depot streets; C. C. Shoffner & Co., dispensary stand; T. K. Renigar, old Express office stand. E G. Newcomb asked that action on his application be deferred until some future date, which request was granted. The report of the committee was reported by a vote of 6 to 3. Alderman Love asked for a roll call, which resulted in the following vote: To adopt the report, Boyd, Elam, Ellington, Joyner, Merrimon, Sergeant; against, Denny, Hunter, Love. The chairman of the committee stated that Mr. Denny was not present when the committee met.

Mr. R. M. Philips offered his resignation as member from the 5th ward. It was accepted. The matter of election his successor went over to next meeting.

A committee from the Industrial and Immigration Association asked that an appropriation not exceeding $500 be given to them for the furtherance of their objects.

Alderman Merrimon moved that a sum not exceeding $500 be appropriated, which motion was adopted.

Centenary Services.

The revival services at Centenary church are increasing in interest from day to day. Theattendance yesterday was large, and several young people found pardon and forgiveness at the Saviour's feet.

Rev. Mr. Boyer's sermon last night was one full of helpful thought and encouragement to the young convert, and to those who were earnestly seeking the truth, but on whose darkened souls the light of the blessed truth had not yet broken with all its brightness. To those he gave a message of encouragement, bidding them continue to strive and the light would come to them.

After the sermon a call was made for penitents and one came forward and was happily converted. Mr. Boyer then threw the meeting open and asked that every one who felt that he would like to testify or say a word, to do so. A number availed themselves of the opportunity, and gave expression of the joy and happiness that had come to them as a result of their giving their hearts to the Master.

Services will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and the meeting will be continued through this week.

A Negro Smothered in Cotton Seed.

Greeneville, S. C., Dispatch, 2nd.

Garfield Stange, a negro, while feeding cotton seed in the oil mill seed house at Honea Path, this morning, was suffocated by tons of seed falling on him. Stange disappeared at 2 p. m., and it was supposed that he had gone home, but at 5 p. m. his body was discovered by the man who relieved him.

WINSTON TO HAVE IT

"IT" IS A DISPENSARY FIGHT.

BILL INTRODUCED IN THE HOUSE WILL CREATE IT.

The Senate Discussed the Matter of the Treatment of the Minority, and Candler, a Republican, Said it Was Satisfactory. Surry County Given a Treasurer.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—A bill was introduced in the House today to establish a dispensary at Winston. It is quite unnecessary to say that this will occasion a big fight.

Other bills were introduced:

To provide license for insurance companies,

To regulate fees of registers of deeds,

To prohibit the granting of license to negro lawyers by the Supreme Court,

To prohibit raising peanuts on the State farms after this year.

The bill allowing sheriffs to collect taxes back to and including 1895, passed.

In the Senate.

The bill re-establishing the office of treasurer of Surry county passed its third reading in the Senate. It was stated that S. P. Graves, the representative from Surry, was satisfied with the action of the Senate.

A bill passed to allow the Norfolk and Western railroad to extend branches into North Carolina.

A resolution for the better ventilation of the capitol was adopted.

The matter of the treatment of the minority in the Senate came up, doubtless suggested by recent newspaper discussion of the same.

Candler, a Republican, said he desired no fairer treatment than that he had received, and he only hoped that it would continue.

The Sub-Committee's Work.

News and Observer, Sunday.

The sub-committe having under consideration the resolution for impeachment of Judges Furches and Douglas held two meetings yesterday, but as yet no conclusion has been reached. Another meeting will be held Monday morning.

"At that time," said Judge Allen, chairman of the sub-committee, last night, "we will very probably complete our report and it will be submitted to a meeting of the full committee Monday night."

No witnesses were examined at yesterday's meeting. The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the evidence and to a statement of the facts in the case, as brought out by the testimony. This statement will be used in the report.

At last night's meeting this review of the evidence was completed and the questions of law involved were considered.

The evidence taken will accompany the sub-committee's report to the full committee tomorrow night.

It is thought by those familiar with such proceedings that the resolution will come before the House for action on Tuesday or Wednesday. Its passage will have the effect of immediately suspending Judges Furches and Douglas for the exercise of their office. The further proceedings before the Senate will determine whether this suspension will be permanent.

Three States Storm-Swept.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The States of Michigan, Illinois and Iowa are storm-swept, and in places there are tie-ups. Heavy winds, heavy snow, zero temperature prevails and railroad travel is interrupted in three States.

Charged With Shooting a Minister.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Arlington, N. J., Feb. 4.—Thomas G. Barker of the Commercial Cable Company, of New York, was held for trial this morning for shooting Rev. John Keller, vicar of Trinity Mission Protestant Episcopal church, Brooklyn.

TAPPED HIS GUN.

The Insignificant Action Action of a Man Who Was Backing Down the Street.

Charlotte Observer.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a spectacular incident was witnessed in front of the city hall. A tall man backed slowly down the street, followed by two other men. He reached for his hip pocket and exposed for a moment a blued steel Colt's revolver of recent pattern. Then, as one of the two spoke to him, his right hand left the pistol and struck the man in the face. As the latter staggered back and then gathered himself for an attack the tall man's hand once more reached back and this time there was no hesitation in the movement of his arm.

At this juncture Chief of Police W. S. Orr, with one-half of his face newly shaven and the other covered with lather, ran down the street and stepped in between the two men. It is possible that what he saw from a barber shop and his action immediately thereafter prevented this from being a funeral notice.

The three men were arrested and taken to the police station. The tall man is Dr. R. Armfield, from Marshville; the other two are John Kelly and George or "Old Dad" Hecker. Dr. Armfield informed the police that he had spent the previous night in Kelly's room above Hunter & Shuman's bar, and that he and Kelly and Hecker had slept in one bed. He said he had thus cultivated an intimate acquaintance wih Kelly because Kelly knew a lot about chickens, while he himself prized a game chicken above all things. Kelly had given him several roosters or cockerells and they had hobnobbed and talked chickens until 1 o'clock before going to bed.

When he woke up yesterday morning about 5 o'clock Dr. Armfield said he found Kelly in bed beside him but Hecker had gone. He felt in his trousers pocket and discovered that $15 had been taken therefrom. Shortly afterwards he said he found Hecker, but knew that he would not recover the money, as Hecker would deny the theft. Yet he determined to have the satisfaction "of telling Hecker what he thought of him," and this was his object when he went to Kelly's room in the afternoon. There he said he found Kelly, Hecker and other men gambling and he accused Hecker of robbing him. Hecker and Kelly followed him into the street, with the result mentioned.

Dr. Armfield was required to give a $55 bond for his appearance before the mayor tomorrow morning, and Dr. I. W. Fasion became his surety. Hecker and Kelly, who are charged with gambling in addition to engaging in an affray, conld not give bond and are locked up.

Mrs. Stewart Dead.

Mrs M. C. Stewart died Saturday night at Orlando, Fla., where she had gone for her health She had been sick for several months, having never recovered from an attack of typhoid fever last summer. She had been in Florida about four weeks and was thought to be improving until a few days ago when Mr. Stewart received a telegram from her physician there stating that she was critically ill. Mr. Stewart at once went there, and has been with her since.

The remains were brought to Greensboro this afternoon and were taken to the home of her father, Mr. J. C. Foust, who lives several miles in the country. The funeral will occur tomorrow from his residence and the remains will be interred at Alamance church.

Married Yesterday Afternoon.

Miss Nellie Bilbro and Mr. Charlie Holden, of this city, were quietly married at the residence of Mr. William Clapp on Arlington street yesterday afternoon. It is learned that the girl's father objected to the young man, and the couple decided to get married anyway and yesterday afternoon Miss Bilbro left home ostensibly to visit a girl friend, was met by Mr. Holden, and together went to the residence of Mr. Clapp with whom the groom boards. There the two were made one by Rev. T. M. Johnson, the pastor of Grace M. P. Church.

Mr. Holden is connected with the Southern Railway at this place.

HIGH POINT TO HAVE A DEPOT

BUT SHE WANTS A PASSENGER DEPOT ALSO.

The Coming Session of the Sunday School Convention Will be Largely Attended.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Feb. 4.—Judging from the number of applicants for homes during the session of the North Carolina Sunday School Convention to be held here February 20-22, there will be a large crowd in daily attendance. But there are plenty of homes among our hospitable people for all that will come. Mr. J. W. Wilborn, who was appointed by the Convention to provide homes for the visitors, is using his best judgment in the selection and has been able to find comfortable quarters for all those who have notified him. Distinguished visitors from a distance will be here, among whom are Prof. E. O. Excell, of Chicago, who has never had a peer as a singer, except, probably the Rev. Sankey; Mr. and Mrs. Hamill and Rev. B. W. Spilman.

The Convention will remain in session three days and will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church.

It is a settled fact that High Point Point is to have a handsome and more commodious freight depot. Plans to that effect are maturing now. But it is not understood that the Southern intends building a new passenger depot at the same time. It was first thought that both would be built together. By all means the Chamber of Commerce and other business heads should get together and correspond with the railway authorities urging that High Point be given the needed improvements at the same time. Both the passenger and freight depots are not in keeping with the business done at this place.

Dr. D. A. Stanton, of this place, is a victim of that dangerous disease known as appendicitis. His condition is reported as being improved today, and unless a change for the worse takes place, an operation will not be performed.

W. B. Steele, Esq., who was appointed special deputy under Collector Duncan has resigned his commission. Mr. Steele's resignation was caused on account of him not liking the job.

Rev. J E. Gay pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, was able to occupy the pulpit yesterday after an illness of several days with la grippe

Miss Ola Hamlin, of Concord, is visiting Mrs. A. E. Prim.

Mrs. A. J. Dodamead is visiting the family of her daughter, Mrs. E H. Davis at Warrenton.

Mr. F. M. Pickett has returned from a successful business trip South.

The handsome brick block on Thomasville street, erected by Messrs. J. H. Johnston and D. A. Stanton is about ready for occupancy. The mayor's office will be located on the second story.

The pretty residence of Mr. Geo. T. Leach on Thomasville street is receiving its last touch.

Rev L. M. Kerchner conducted services in the Presbyterian church yesterday.

Officers for the Perpetual Building and Loan Association have been elected and the Association starts off as soon as a required amount of shares have been subscribed. There is only one other Perpetual Building and Loan Association in the State, at Charlotte. [This is an error—Telegram.]

Recently an old lady broke a lamp chimney at her home here. This was the first occurrence of the kind that has happened in her home for 35 years.

Mr. S. Perry, engineer on the Southern has been confined to his room with la grippe.

The expression "in hot water" was practically brought in use here the other day when one of our fair young ladies stepped into a tub of hot water. She was enroute to the front door to answer a call when she stepped into the basin which had been left in the hall by one of the younger members of the family.

A movement is on foot among the property owners to put down substantial paving on the principal sidewalks.

Mrs. Mary Joyce and daughter, Miss Carrie, of Michigan, is visitiing Mrs. M. A. Tate, Mrs. Joce's mother.

Death of Capt. W. H. Kitchin.
News and Observer.

Scotland Neck, Feb. 2.—Captain W. H. Kitchin passed away peacefully at 9 o'clock tonight.

Captain Kitchin had been ill for upwards of two weeks with pneumonia. At one time, announced in this paper, his condition was considered somewhat improved and hopes began to be felt of his ultimate recovery. This afternoon, however, he began sinking rapidly and at 4 o'clock became unconscious. Then, surrounded by the sorrowing members of his family, he passed painlessly beyond the veil.

Captain Kitchin was well known throughout the State and his death will be greatly regretted. The high estimation in which he was held by the people was attested by the fact of his election by them first to the State Legislature and aftewards to Congress. In both of these bodies Captain Kitchin performed the duties which devolved upon him with an ability and conscientiousness that won the esteem of all who knew him.

Captain Kitchin was the father of Hon. W. W. Kitchin, Congressman from the Fifth district, and of Hon. Claude Kitchin, Rpresentative in Congress from the Second district. Another son is Mr. A. P. Kitchin, of Roxboro.

A Big Corporation.
Durham Sun.

A big company was organized in Durham Friday afternoon. It was The United States Colliery Steel and Iron Co., limited. It was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia with a capital stock of $5,000,000.

The principal office will be in Baltimore.

The business of the company is to mine ore and coal, build railroads, etc. The company now owns 6,000 acres of iron and coal lands in Stokes county, this State, which it is intended to operate.

The incorporators and directors of the company named above are J. W. Hazell, Daniel Crook, John H. Foss and R. E. Lyon, of Baltimore and J S. Carr and L. A. Carr, of Durham.

It is understood that this company will apply to the Legislature for a charter for a railroad in Stokes county, from points to be hereafter designated by them in their application.

The Impeachment Committee.
Charlotte Observer.

The sub-committee of the House judiciary committee—Messrs. Craig, Connor, Allen, Graham and Spainhour, having reported unanimously to the full committee in favor of the impeachment of Judges Furches and Douglas, the proceedings may be said to be fairly launched. It is to be noted that of this sub-committee one—Mr. Craig—was the introducer of this impeachment resolution that three of them—Messrs. Conner, Allen and Graham—are eastern men, Mr. Graham being, besides, a brother-in-law of Justice Walter Clark. In this connection, too, it might be worth the while of members of the Legislature to read, on another page of this paper, a communication having relation to this impeachment proceeding, from the pen of S. J. Ervin, Esq., an able member of the bar of Morganton.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E Holton's drug store.

Contagious Blood Poison

Like Begets Like.

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life, for it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

The Sin of the Parent.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

ROBERT BURNS, PLOWMAN, POET.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

True poetry has been defined as the reproduction of true feeling in sentiment or description. There can be no doubt that there was poetry before language. As language became more expanded poetry became more descriptive. The Iliad, the Odyssey and the Æneid, the triology of ancient poesy are the best illustrations of that class as Shakespeare and Milton are of the school of the imagination which succeeded. These latter were followed by what may be termed the critical school where the imagination gave way to construction, and formal and exact expression subjected to the strictest rule of prosody. Of this school Dryden was the most conspicuous exemplar. At first he displayed no imagination, but wrote verses in which the metrical composition was exact, while the poetical afflatus was lacking. He wrote steadily for over forty years, through all the dynasties from Cromwell to Queen Anne, flattering and toadying it all. He was a laborous and voluminous writer working for his bread, and translating Virgil, Ovid and other ancient writers by contract. He had genius of a high order but not of the flashlight kind which scintillates, but is evanescent. His career was somewhat in the reverse order of modern poets, who usually make their advent by the display of imagination, which as they advance in life becomes tempered with critical power necessary for the creation of works of high merit. Dryden evinced imagination only in his late years, his Alexander's Feast and Ode to Saint Cecilia being of the highesttype of imaginative expression. English poetry for many years suffered from his example. The poets succeeding him as Pope, Addison and Goldsmith, produced polished lines, but there was none for nearly a century who showed the power of an original poetical mind. Cowper is hailed by some as the first who led the way to a more natural tone, but he was a hypochondriac and while his poems are of a highly moral and reflective tone, his John Gilpin is the only one quotable as universal property

Robert Burns was the real Peter the Hermit, who led the advance in the great revolution which proclaimed poetry as the true form of expression for natural emotions, whether of mirth or sorrow, humor, satire, love or heroic sentiment. He was fitted by natural temperament for the mission, of a deeply subjective tendency, as well as strong objective faculties, with the power of close observation as well as the reflective capacity of digesting in his mind what his eye took in. Born with this endowment, the training of his youug mind by a mother who early impressed it by the recital of her store of legends and ballads, his occupation as a farmer's son engaged in plowing and other work favorable for thought and observation, served well to cultivate to fruition the germ which nature had implanted in him. Had he never received an education or recorded a thought in language comprehensible to after generations, he would still have been a poet with the divine afflatus—the power of soul to commune with nature and breathe inwardly as well as outwardly the glories which the mind's eye can see and the heart can feel of the beautiful in nature.

The estimate in which Burns is held by the world is the best index of the place he holds in poetry. Wherever the English tongue is spoken his memory is as fresh as in the early years after his death. He has stood the test of a century of appreciation fixed by some as the criterion of true merit. There is no poet whose verses have been so thoroughly memorized, and it is safe to say that there are many who if every published line were destroyed could reproduce them verbatim. He was followed by Scott, Byron, Wordsworth and others whose writings form a distinct school of which he was the founder. It continues to be a favorite school despite the affection of a more stilted and pretentious style adopted by the putative founders of new and short-lived ones, and it is safe to say that another century will find him in the enjoyment of equal favor.

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug

HOLE IN THE LUNGS

There are thousands of men and women, as well as ever, with holes in their lungs: consumption stopped.

Consumption stopped is consumption cured. What does it?

Some change in the way of life and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

With the emulsion, give some attention to circumstances: change from a dark damp close room to a sunny dry airy one; from city to country; from hard to an easy life; indoors to out.

A hole in the lungs once healed is no worse than a too-tight waist or waistcoat.

Take the emulsion, and give it a chance to heal the wound.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4

A cigarette bill will probably pass. Its stringency and effectiveness will be seen hereafter. The News and Observer says the plan seems to be to change the bill so as to prohibit the sale of cigarettes and cigarette paper to minors. Pass the best bill possible—one that will reach the giant octopus of evil and force it to draw in its manifold claws.—Wilmington Messenger.

Can the Messenger explain how it is in favor of curtailing the liberty of the citizen and invading his rights by taking away his power to buy cigarettes, and yet opposes curtailing his power when he desires to make brutes of his children by condemning them to total ignorance at a time when they are helpless?

In this connection we would state that our little daily Observer, the Raleigh Times and Charlotte News were the only papers in the State that printed Governor Aycock's inaugural address the same day it was delivered.—Fayetteville Observer.

We see no reason why the "little daily Observer" should go to the trouble to print this statement, especially since it is not true. Other papers in the State printed the speech the same day it was delivered, one of which was The Telegram, which also printed a special telegraphic account of the inaugural ceremonies.

No one can fail to be satisfied with the restrictions thrown about the sale of liquor in saloons, which are provided for in the ordinances regarding the same, adopted by the aldermen Saturday night If these laws are enforced strictly, as they should be, and as we have no reason to believe they will not be, the evil of selling liquors by the saloon system will be minimized. Those who are given license should be made to understand that the law means what it says when it provides that license shall be revoked upon the first infringement of the law.

In its usual custom of giving especial attention to anything that stands for the real welfare of the city, The Telegram today prints a little lengthy account of the Sunday school work of yesterday here. The work which the churches are undertaking to do is a most important one, and deserves the consideration and help of all persons who can help.

Though the Legislature failed to lift Commodore White out of his job, it has succeeded in depriving him of his flagship.

Robbed Under an Electric Light

By Wire to The Telegram.

Brooklyn, Feb. 4.—A story was made public today that A. W. Voorhees, a retired merchant, living near the residences of Lieut.-Governor Woodruff and J. Rogers Maxwell, was attacked in the street under an electric light Thursday evening last, by two. The latter ran away without securing plunder, when a newsboy approached. The highwaymen followed him off the car. They spied his diamond pin, and tried to wrest it from his bosom. The other robber was searching Voorhees' pockets when the newsboy came up.

Big Building Collapses.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pittsburg, Jan. 4.—The large four story iron front building occupied by the Stevenson and Foster Printing Company collapsed this morning. Immediately the ruins caught fire from igniting natural gas and in less than an hour the destruction was complete. During the night a portion of the partition weakened and fell, and the building was closed in consequence, or there might have been a heavy loss of life. The loss is estimated at one hundred and fifty thousand.

Crowds at Windsor.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Windsor, Jan. 4.—The King, Queen Alexandra, the Kaiser, and members of the royal family attended the service in the Albert memorial chapel this morning. The service was conducted by the Bishop of Winchester, and the Dean of Windsor. All shops were closed today, and crowds poured from London The long walk was filled with a multitude of persons. The coffin still remains in St. Georges chapel. The royal servants, the police, their wives and children alone allowed a view of the Queen's body by order King Edward.

Express Train Looted.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4—Robbers looted the Adams Express car on the Pennsylvania "Owl Train" for New York. They tore open packages and boxes, and dropped off the car with the plunder before the train reached Jersey City. The car had been forced with a jimmy, while the messenger was in the car ahead.

Preliminary Services.

At St. Barnnbas church services for Septuagesima Sunday—Seventy days before Easter—beginning of the "Lesser Lent." The humiliation season before the preparation of the great Christian Feast of the Resurrection Text of Rector's sermon from the gospel for the day "Why stand ye here all the day idle." The difficulties of interpretation of the parables was for spritual stimulus, the apparent injustice of the hirelings wages only proves the fact, we cannot earn or merit salvation; when we, having done our part, are ready for it, the free gift of God becomes ours. Work opens up opportunity. Idleness, in any line, lays the foundation for ignorance, poverty, filth, disease and crime When this fact becomes potent to you, is your opportunity, whether it be in the first or the eleventh hour of the day, "The Master has need of you."

Death of Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Jackson, who lived on East Bragg street, died last night at 11:30 o'clock, of typhoid-pneumonia. Mrs Jackson would have been fifty years old on April 27, coming. She moved to Greensboro in 1897, from Bethseda, Tenn., where she had lived for some years. She was a sister of Rev. A. P. Tyre, pastor of the Methodist church at Wilson. He had been to see her once since her illness and expected to return shortly, his sister not being deemed dangerously ill at the time he left Saturday. Mr. Chas. C. Hudson, her nephew, who lived with her was absent in Tennessee on a business trip. He is expected home on every train. The deceased was a consistent member of the Centenary Methodist church. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock from her late residence.

Judge Wallace Dead.

Judge J. G. Wallace, whose serious illness at the home of his daughter Mrs. Egbert W. Smith, was published in the Telegram last week, died Saturday night about 8 o'clock. The remains were taken yesterday morning to his old home in Franklin, Tenn., to be interred there this afternoon.

Judge Wallace came to Greensboro two weeks ago to visit his daughter and was stricken with paralysis, from which he never rallied. He was a man of promise in his State, a man of fine character, and a lawyer of ability. His two daughters who came when he did accompanied the remains on the sad homeward trip.

Two Sermons.

Rev. Mr. Jordan, brother of Sheriff Jordan, a Baptist minister, preached two sermons in the First Presbyterian church yesterday. The congregation speaks of the sermons as very fine ones. Mr. Jordan lives in Denver, Col., and is now visiting in North Carolina.

To be Married in Durham.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF JOB PRINTING DEPARTMENT

Mr. J. C. Pierce, recently filling a temporary engagement with Mr. J. J. Stone, of this city, is now connected with the Greensboro Publishing Company, at The Telegram office, in the conduct of a Job Printing Department.

For some time we have had under consideration the matter of placing ourselves in a better position to cater to the constantly increasing demand for the better class of commercial and society printing, and it gives us pleasure to make this announcement.

Mr. Pierce is an up-to-date, progressive printer, practically and technically, having established the mail order business of The J. C. Pierce Printing Co., at his former home in Virginia, which now brings him trade from every Southern State.

As well as rendering effective service in display and make up he believes in giving good material—something different and better than the average. It will give him pleasure at any time to submit samples and estimates on different classes of job work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS TO MAKE A SYSTEMATIC EFFORT.

City to be Canvassed—The Address of Rev. B. W. Spillman Yesterday Afternoon on the Importance of Sunday School Work—It is as Necessary as the Preaching of the Gospel.

A work was begun at the meeting of Sunday School workers in the reading room of the Southern Loan and Trust Company's building yesterday afternoon which will, no doubt, eventuate in a very large increase in Sunday School attendance in this city. As had been stated, the meeting was for the purpose of taking measures to have a complete census of the city taken, with a view of ascertaining how many persons there are in the city who should be Sunday School attendants but who are not. The work is a cooperative one in which all the denominations in the city take part. All the denominations were represented at the meeting yesterday. Committees were appointed to take the census. This work will be done between the second and third Sundays in this month. Just as soon as these lists are completed they will be condensed into seperate ones, each of which will contain the names of all those persons who are inclined to the same church. As the censns is being taken one of the questions asked those who do not attend any church will be, "What church or Sunday School would you prefer were you to attend any?" The answers will be recorded, so that when the lists are complete they will show not only those who are not in Sunday School, but their denominational preferences. Each denomination will then take the lists of those leaning to it, and it will be that denomination's business to see after them and try to get them into Sunday School.

After the meeting some of the workers went to the First Baptist church to hear the Sunday School Secretary of the Baptist State Convention, Rev. B. W. Spillman, who made an address at 3:30. Though Mr. Spillman was present at the meeting in the Southern Loan and Trust building, it was not by design. His presence in the city had nothing to do with the work mentioned above. This work was begun entirely by home workers. Mr. Spillman came to preach in the Baptist church, which he did, morning and evening. In this connection, however, it will not be amiss to give some report of Rev. Mr. Spillman's excellent address. The weather was extremely unpleasant and few people could get out. Those who did go were amply repaid for facing the rain. The address was a highly earnest, sensible, and eloquent talk on the importance of the Sunday School work.

Rev. Mr. Spillman's Address.

Before beginning his speech Mr. Spillman called attention to the State Sunday School Convention which is to meet at High Point on the 20th. The meeting will be specially interesting from the fact that a company of notable Sunday School workers who are to make a three months tour of the Southern States, will be present. These persons are: Marion Lawrence, General Secretary of the International Sunday School Convention, Toledo, O.; Prof. H. M. Hamil, Field Secretary of the International Convention, Jacksonville, Ill.; Mrs. H. M. Hamil, of the International primary work; Prof. E. O. Excel, the noted music director, Chicago. Mr. Spillman will join the party at Danville and continue through the trip of three months.

The subject of the afternoon's address was "The place of the Sunday School in the Christian system." "Some people," said the speaker, "say that the Sunday School has no place in the work of the church, but is just as much a part of the church work as preaching is. For every reason you can show me in the new testament for preaching the gospel, I will give two for teaching it. It is just as true that Christ told his followers to teach as that He told them to preach. There is difference in preaching and teaching. I might preach to that window till doom's day and yet never teach it anything. Preaching is the public proclamation of the gospel; teaching is the imparting of knowledge by questions and answers. Christ commanded his disciples to teach all things which he had commanded them. The apostles were teachers as well as preachers. The new testament churches had preachers and teachers. We have pastors, preachers and teachers. Each has his peculiar work, but the church which lays stress upon imparting knowledge to the people will be powerful.

"God picks out nine-tenths of his preachers from those who have been Sunday School teachers. After the old apostolic custom of teaching was set aside and the Bible closed, there was not in all Europe one inch of progress made till some one opened the old book again. The Sunday school's place is the business of teaching the scripture. It is just as important as preaching, yet the majority of people will regard the Sunday school with absolute indifference, and yet pride themselves on their regular attendance upon the preaching service. Yet Christ spent fully three-fourths of his time teaching.

"The chatechetical school was the single power which spread Christianity. The teachers gathered the children and taught them, and when the pagan parents died the children became Christians. Every time a great wave of religious fervor swept over the country there was behind it a teaching of the scriptures. This is the secret of the wonderful growth of the Methodist church—they have taught the children, while the other churches preached too much to the old ones. So the Methodists have taken the country. The rapid progress of the Baptist church in North Carolina is the marvel of the other denominations. For five solid years we have on an average established eighty Sunday schools per year. There is not another State that has within 25,000 as many in the Baptist Sunday Schools as North Carolina has. The Sunday school is the vanguard of the Christian army. It is also the great help of the preachers. Three-fourths of our church membership is asleep. Let us wake up and go to the work as a real business."

ERIC HOPE.

In the issue of the New York Herald on Sunday, January 20, a page was devoted to the five matinee idols on the American stage. According to the Herald this honor belongs to William Faversham, John Drew, E. H. Sothern, Eric Hope and J. K. Hackett. A reference to this publication is made pertinent by the appearance in this city on Saturday, February 9th, at the Academy of Music, of Eric Hope (Earl of Yarmouth) in Jerome K. Jerome's comedy, "The Councillor's Wife." The appearance of Hope in this country came about in an odd way. Coming from a noble English family in England, he was noted as being one of the best amateur actors of the day. On a visit to this country the early part of last year, he was induced to portray one of the leading roles in the annual performances given by the Strollers, New York's most exclusive amateur organization. His success was instantaneous and he became the immediate rage of the metropolis. So great and favorable were the press criticisms that Mr. Charles Frohman devoted days in trying to induce the Earl to become a member of his leading comedy stock company. More for the amusement than returns, Yarmouth accepted, and during the winter was seen in the leading roles of Mr. Frohman's comedy productions. "The Councillor's Wife" is from the pen of Jerome K. Jerome, perhaps the best known of all English writers. It was originally seen at the Empire Theatre, New York, and was a tremendous success. That the engagement in this city will be interesting is more than evidenced by the demand for seats.—Adv.

The Man on the Bridge

I MUST say I felt considerably proud when the people of Amber made me city marshal. There was more in it than in prospecting anyway, or to put it plainly there was as much wealth as I chose to gather in, with every prospect of a public funeral in case I happened to get shot. The trouble was where to draw the line, for if I just let things slide the boys would massacre each other until there was nothing left but the town site, and if I did my duty the first thing would have been to clap the whole population in jail or run them all out of the country. I did neither, but just discriminated. Suppose a man got into trouble, the first thing to find out was whether he had a vote, secondly if he had voted to put me in office, thirdly if he belonged to the Knights of Labor, Knights of Pythias, Miners' union, or any other kind of secret society. Should he prove any of these things or be well fixed as regards wealth, it was no use to bother beyond a formal arrest and a wink with the off eye. If he was a destitute alien without any friends he had no right to get into trouble, so I made an example of him. Another difficulty was about unlicensed or prohibitive business; but if I had turned the law loose on every offender I should have closed up all saloons, gambling halls, restaurants, dance houses and theaters—in fact the whole city of Amber, including the church, for running a gambling show which was advertised as a bazar. There were a few other industries, a laundry, a mortuary and a hospital, but they were mostly liable for overdue taxes, so that I ought to have put them all in the jug, including the city marshal, which was me. The usual thing was to blackmail everybody instead of running up jail expenses, but the question was where to draw the line. You see if I didn't blackmail enough, people concluded I was useless, and if I assessed them too much they kicked like the bulls of Bashan. As Dan McPhail said once in the vigilance committee when I jacked him up for cumbering the sidewalk with packing-cases to show what a stock of goods he had to "sacrifice"—

"This job requires tact."

Now in case there's any benighted pilgrim here who doesn't know Amber Gulch, I'd better explain that it's in the Bitterroot mountains of Idaho, between Dead Mule pass and the Northern Pacific railroad. Well, as I was saying, I was city marshal of Amber in the fall of '90, when an Englishman turned up from goodness knows where, dead broke. "Look here," says he, "you're city marshal."

"I air."

"Well, look here," says he; "I'm broke. I've tramped here out of Washington territory, and my partner at Spokane Falls has stolen all my clothes except what I've got on."

"What made you come here, anyhow?" says I.

"Look here," says he, "I got stranded in the farming country with winter coming on, and I'd have starved to death for all the work I could get. So I made for the nearest mining camp."

He had an old slouch hat, a shirt, overalls and a pair of boots; hadn't seen a square meal for months, looked me straight in the eyes, and what he said was true.

"Well," says I, "what do you want?"

He looked up the street, then down, collecting his thoughts, then at me straight.

"I've written three times to the Spokane police to ask them to recover my clothes. I got no answer—now I want you to write."

"Go to that store," says I, pointing to Dan McPhail's, "rig yourself out, and tell them to charge it to me."

He thanked me, turned his head away, wiped his eyes with one finger, then faced me again. "I'm not that kind of a man. Will you write the letter?"

Of course I did. He had proved that even though he was only an alien Britisher he was straight goods—and I liked straight goods in any man. Moreover I got his baggage from Spokane within the week.

Next thing I knew that young man—he was 24 or less—went to McPhail, said that he had earned ten dollars writing for newspapers, and wanted to start trading.

"Where?" asked McPhail.

"On the bridge."

Now the Amber river runs down the side of the gulch with the town on the south and only the railroad depot agin the cliffs on the north. The bridge is right at the foot of Main street, joining the town to the depot. There's only one sidewalk, so that the whole crowd to and from town has to go over on the right hand of the bridge. It's a wooden trestle business, and half way across, over the middle of the Amber river, there's an angle, where the sidewalk bends round. The tenderfoot wanted to trade at that angle. McPhail represented the county, the city and the vigilance committee. He knew that the thing was plain against three different laws, and yet that Britisher was smart. He had chosen the best stand for business in Amber Gulch.

"You can't trade," says McPhail, "on the bridge."

"No," says the Englishman, "and I don't want to. Who does the air over the middle of the river belong to?"

"The Almighty," says McPhail; "if you want to trade there you'll have to take out a license from Heaven."

"Will you interfere?"

"No," says McPhail, "I guess not. I never interfere outside of my jurisdiction."

"Thanks," says the Britisher.

Next day I found that Englishman on a plank, which he had chucked across the angle of the bridge. Underneath was the river, raging among the big bowlders, all ice and spray, but mind? He didn't mind. He was hanging on in midair by the skin of his teeth, peddling cigars across the handrail.

"Have a smoke?" says he, and presented me with a cigar, then struck a match on his breeches and gave me a light. Pay for it? Not much! Why, the Britisher thought he was under an obligation to me. He met his obligations. Once I saw a man pay him a silver dollar that was in dispute, and the Britisher flung it at his face. Next time I passed the man on the bridge had two dry goods boxes for a counter, a trading license stuck up, a lot of apples, two kinds of cigars and some trinkets which didn't catch on. In three days he was full of grub, color in his face, a coat on his back and doing a roaring business.

After a week or so he began to build, and the beaver wasn't in it for cunning. On three bits of scantling across the angle he put a floor, walls, a roof, then a glass front along the hand-rail with sliding sashes. He had a dog kennel door under the hand-rail to crawl in by, a box stove to keep him warm and cook his meals on, and enough floor space to roll out his blankets at night. In six weeks the man on the bridge was worth a hundred and fifty dollars, doing a business at a hundred per cent. profit of eight dollars a day. Then he began to advertise all over town with pictures he made himself of cats smoking, babies crying for 'em, and a whole menagerie of men and animals enjoying of 'em. Here's from one of his poem advertisements:

"He saw that the prospect was fair
If he only could find him a lair,
But no place could be found
On the dry, solid ground,
So he built up his house in the air.

With cigars he's seen desperate times
As he roped in the nickels and dimes
When men died of his smoke
With a gulp and a choke—
He was sent to this town for his crimes."

I don't know whether it was the poem or the cold or the Baring crash which busted all the banks and reduced our population to half, but anyway the crazy man on the bridge began to have a bad time. His trade went down to nothing, and instead of three square meals a day he began to fill up vacancies by eating his own stock, five cents' worth of candy for breakfast and a smoke for dinner. Besides that, Long Shorty, one of our special brand of toughs, thought that the man on the bridge was having more than his share of prosperity. One morning late in December Long Shorty put two heavy timbers across the river behind the man on the bridge and began to build a house on them beams. He planked over his floor, set up his frame of scantling and began to fill in the walls, then went to the city council and told them that he intended, at his own expense, to lay down an extra sidewalk to cover the space over the river between the bridge and his new saloon.

Of course that meant sweeping away the man on the bridge, shanty and all, by permission of the city authorities, so I sent one of my deputy marshals to see how the Britisher felt.

"Oh, that's all right," says the man on the bridge. "Long Shorty rests one end of his bridge timbers on railroad land and the other end on private house property. If I get his timbers sawn off at both ends, the gentleman will have to swing his saloon with ropes."

"What from?"

"The clouds," says the Britisher, and gave my deputy a cigar.

Now, if that youngster had kicked up a fuss and gone after Long Shorty with a gun, I'd have let them worry it out between themselves; but the man on the bridge, although only an alien and a tenderfoot with nothing to live on but his native grit, was the only law-abiding inhabitant in my district. So I went to Dan McPhail, and says I: "Dan, I guess I'm going to have my spring cleaning."

"Good business," says Dan, so we set to work making out a list of the proposed exiles, gamblers, bums, crooks, etc., etc., who would never be missed from Amber, to the number of 25. We called a session of the vigilance committee, posted a guard around my little calaboose and ran in the gentlemen one by one until we had a full house. Then we started the whole bunch—25 head—and herded them with stock whips and chunks of ice through the streets to the municipal boundary, where we turned them loose with the remark "that the world was all before them where to choose." One or two who objected we chucked into the river to cool off, but for the most part they went like lambs, including Long Shorty, who understood that I'd plug him full of holes if he ever showed his ugly mug in Amber Gulch.

Going back into town I interviewed the man on the bridge who had stuck up a crazy poster suggesting a necktie social or lynching bee, which was officious of him, and might lead to harm.

"Take that down," says I, wondering if he'd thank me for running his enemy out of the country—but not a bit of it.

"All right," says the man on the bridge—curse his cheek! "I see that the people has risen in its might for vengeance on the evil-doers—where did you hide?"—London Black and White.

Rhode Island's Fine New Capitol.

Rhode Island is the smallest state in the union in area, and its entire population is about equal to that of the city of Boston, yet this state has nearing completion a state capitol which is exceeded in cost by the capitols of few states and which good judges declare is equaled by none in architectural beauty.

THE EBB.

[London, January 22.—Queen Victoria died this evening, at Osborne, exactly at half past 6, just as the tide was beginning to go out.—Clipped by the author of the following lines from The New York Journal.]

The twilight o'er the castle fell;
The Queen, within, was lying,
Her face in mystic ashen spell,
For England's Queen was dying.

But, just as came the early star,
O'er castle-walls to weep,
A voice was calling, past the bar,
Sweet voice, far o'er the deep

'Twas calling back the truant tide,
That slipt off, to the loam,
'Twas calling softly, "ne'er abide,
But bring the Queen's soul home."

And then, while wept the tender star,
The tide crept from the sod,
And sang low sea-song on the bar—
"She ebbs with me to God."

—JNO. R. MORRIS.

Charlotte Observer.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. Howard Gardner.

EDITOR'S AWFUL PLIGHT.

F. M. Higgins, editor Seneca, (Ills.,) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest Pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly.

A POWDER MILL EXPLOSION

Removes everything in sight; so do drastic mineral pills, but both are mighty dangerous. Don't dynamite the delicate machinery of your body with calomel, croton oil or aloes pills, when Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are gentle as a summer breeze, do the work perfectly. Cures headache, constipation. Only 25c. at C. E. Holton's drug store.

A period of 44 years is sufficient to determine the success or failure of a business. The W. W. KIMBALL COMPANY was established in 1858. Since that time they have manufactured and sold about sixty-six thousand pianos and about two hundred and twenty thousand organs. The factories have been enlarged from time to time until they are now twice the size of any piano and organ factory in the world. Kimball Pianos and Organs are the very highest possible standard. They are celebrated throughout the musical world for their wonderful depth, brilliancy and purity of tone, their great strength of construction and durability—making them the special favorites with all the great musicians and musical instructors throughout the country as seen by the hundreds of endorsements and many gold medals awarded in competition with other makes. Kimball Pianos and Organs are sold direct from their large factories at one small factory profit. They are fully guaranteed. We shall be glad to hear from any one desiring sstrictly first-class instrument.
